Backdrop

The current educational landscape is marked by significant paradigm shifts viz. from Quantity to Quality, from Teaching to Learning, from Teacher centric to Student centric approaches, from Summative to Formative assessment, from Objectives to Outcomes etc. These shifts are addressed through various qualitative initiatives taken by UGC in the form of academic & evaluation reforms for Higher Education Institutions. One such qualitative reform is Outcome Based Education (OBE) which is a result-oriented approach to education that focuses & organises the entire educational program & instructional effects around the clearly defined 'outcomes' articulated at programme, programme specific, course levels. In other words, this approach focuses on measuring student performances through Outcomes expressed in terms of knowledge, understanding, skills, abilities & attitude attained at end of any learning experiences. In line with this approach the UGC has developed Learning Outcomes based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for UG & PG levels. In addition to that various frameworks such as National Credit Framework (NCF), National Higher Education Qualifications Framework (NHEQF), National Skill Qualification Framework (NSQF), National School Education Qualification Framework (NSEQF) etc. have also been developed for ensuring the smooth & effective implementation of OBE. Apart from that the assessment & accreditation process of HEIs by NAAC also lays stress on OBE. Thus, it becomes pertinent for every Higher Education Faculty to have the understanding of this approach which will pave the way for its effective planning, designing, implementation & execution. In this backdrop, a one week online national FDP has been organised with an intent to give insight into the OBE approach & various frameworks thereby developing competencies for their effective implementation.
